AUSTRIAN PINE — coming to the foreground as an excellent dual-purpose tree. As a Christmas tree which will go on and make timber, comparable in growth to the Red Pine. More resistant to insects than either Red or Scotch Pine, it requires less trimming to make a saleable Christmas tree.

ARMINTROUT'S EVERGREEN NURSERY

ALLEGAN

MICHIGAN

YOU'RE INVITED Armintrout's Evergreen Nursery is located a half-mile east of Allegan on Ave. 113. If you are in Southwestern Michigan, we urge you to visit our nursery to see at first hand how Armintrout's quality seedlings and transplants are grown and discuss your plans and problems with us in person. Allegan is located on two main highways, M-40 and M-89, midway between Kalamazoo and Holland. It's a pleasant place to visit with plenty of good hunting and fishing nearby . . . and we most sincerely invite you to drop in if you're in the neighborhood.

Some General Information Which May Prove Helpful . . .

TRANSPLANTING INFORMATION The various sets of numerals (2 - 1 or 2 - 2, for example) shown first on the price list indicate the number of years the trees have been in seed and transplant beds. The first figure indicates years in seed beds, the second shows years in transplant beds. The total shows the tree's age, with each dash (-) indicating one transplanting. The total of all figures equals the age of the tree. Thus a tree shown as 2 - 2 is four years old, remained in seed beds two years and in transplant beds two years.

WHEN YOUR TREES ARRIVE Open bundles with care and check the shipment against your order. If there are shortages, or if anything else is amiss, notify us as soon as possible so that we can arrange prompt and satisfactory adjustment.

TRY IT "OUR WAY" FIRST Even if you do not plan to plant your trees immediately after arrival, open up the bundles. Roots should be moist. To keep them in perfect condition until you're ready to plant, the opened bundles should be "heeled in" in trenches in moist ground, protected from sun and wind. Dig a narrow trench, set in the bundles side by side and make certain roots are kept moist by pressing soil around entire root system. Trees can be kept healthy in this way until you are ready to set them out. When planting time comes, place the bundles, root down, in pails of water, and carry them to the planting site in this way.

TREES PER ACRE Here's how to estimate the number of seedlings you will need, per acre for the three most used spacings:

Three feet apart	4,840
Four feet apart	2,722
Five feet apart	1,742

Christmas Tree plantations can be estimated at 2,000 trees per acre.

Beds in foreground are Scotch Pine.
3 Beds in background are Austrian Pine.
Pines shown are 2 - 0 2" - 4"

Foreground are Blue Spruce Transplants 2 - 2
Back are Taxus Capitata 2 - 2

A WORD OF CAUTION We don't recommend field planting of spruce and fir seedlings under 4-inches in size on sites which are extremely hot or dry. Small pine seedlings and transplanted spruce and fir will fare alright on sites of this type, however. If in doubt, check with your county agent, Soil Conservation Service or District Forester.

ALL OUR TREES are graded, with the undersized, light caliper and those with damaged roots culled out. Our seedlings are grown in high-humus, low-density soils, thus assuring sturdy stems and fibrous root systems.
